Enrollment 653

This is a rebuilding year for the Hillcrest staff. Beginning at a workshop camp in early August our editors began to put together a new image for our yearbook. For the first time ever we have a yearbook publication class which allows us to work eighth hour every day. With class time and extra hours put in after school to cover activities, sports, and special events our goal is to produce a spring edition which paints a more vivid picture of life at CHS. We hope that this book is a memory book. A way to keep in contact, not just with the people, but with all of the activities and classes that make up high school life.

As the years pass by someone is sure to ask, "Do you remember so and so? Do you remember when we . . . ?" and this book will get pulled down from the shelf to check. We hope that when you open the book to look for that picture you will notice the one next to it and the one next to that. We hope that you will take a few minutes to turn the pages and think back.

The more years that pass, the more likely it will be to hear comments such as — "Did we really wear those clothes? Did we really do that?" Our lives are sure to change in many ways in the years to come, but our memories can remain intact through the pictures and words bound together in this book. So, when you want to remember what your life was like in 1994 open your yearbook, smile, and remember because this book is . . . JUST 4 U.

WISCONSIN JUST 4 U

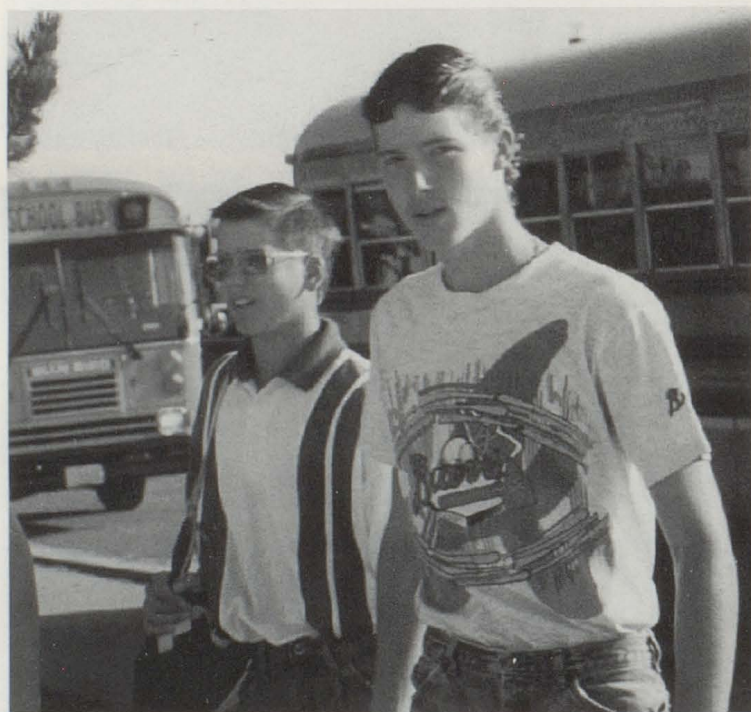

1. The smiling Carole Hanne greets us as we return to school on August 24th. Mrs. Hanne has been greeting CHS students since the beginning of deer hunting season 16 years ago.
2. Principal John Hocking addresses the 7th and 8th grade students on the first day of school.
3. Tina Heindle and Colter Hocking get down to business as they put their things in their new lockers.
4. Art teacher John Kleinschmidt comes prepared for the first day. Mr. Kleinschmidt looks forward to the beginning of school because "it's a chance to meet new people."
5. Louie Solberg, Ryan Bragg and Darcy Lapp look forward to their Freshman year.

JUST 4 U

HERE WE

1. Tammy Weiland, Karen Berg and Jessica Viergutz discuss what to do after the first day.
2. It's nice to see a bunch of smiles Heather Koch, April Zrutski, and Bonnie Gay.
3. Tommy Ploeckelman and Dave Denzin enjoy their bus ride to school.

GO AGAIN!

August 24th, 1993 found CHS students saying goodbye to warm summer days and hello the bustling activity of another school year. Although we regret the loss of free time and lazy days spent with family and friends we welcome the people and activities that the school year offer.

Taking a glimpse into the halls of CHS, one sees a lot of hustling and bustling. From the Monday morning rush to class to the fabulous Friday afternoon exit the key word is "busy."

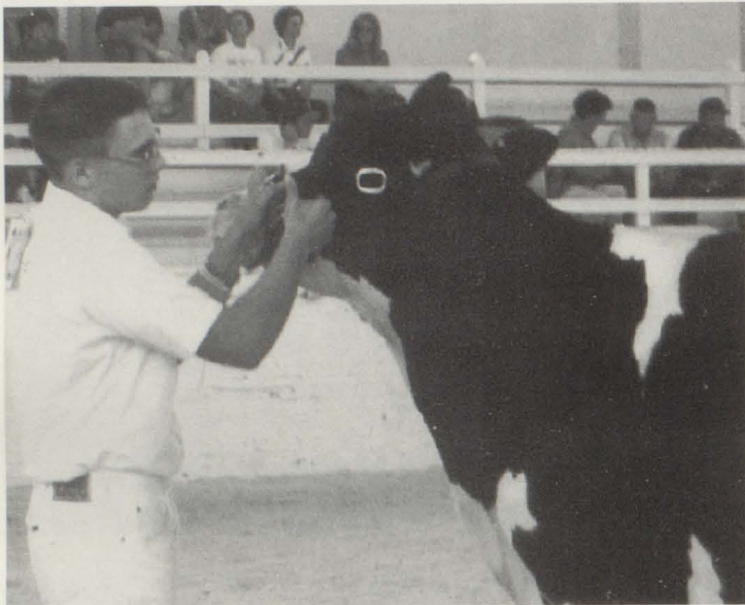

It is this activity that students will remember most about their high school years.

Everything from staring at intricate math problems to dissecting frogs for biology. From catching the winning touchdown pass to competing at State for Forensics. There is an unlimited number of things to get involved in. This along with the times spent with friends, is what we look forward to as we come back to school.

1. Augh, the first day of school, its always fun to fill up the locker again, Johnathon Block.
2. The "new" Juniors socialize before they are sent to their home rooms.

Happy Days

Summer, a word known by people as fun. Many activities go on during the summer. Swimming, skiing, carnivals and making new friends are just a few.

Although summer is just a few months long, it is probably, to most people, three of the best months of the year.

To 4-H people, summer is a blast, but also a lot of hard work. Showing cattle at the fair and making things for it teaches them a lot of creativity and responsibility.

To travelers, summer means a lot also. It is a chance to travel and see different parts of the world.

People choose many activities to do over summer vacation. Whatever activities you did over the summer-I hope you had a blast.

1. Ben Kreuger showing cattle at the Wausau Fair in August. Hope that he got a blue ribbon.

2. Chrissy Suckow is sitting with the piggy's at the Wausau Fair. "Oink" "Oink"!

3. Justin Luther leading his sheep with a hopeful face. I hope he did well!

FBLA Goes to Washington

While many students relaxed in the few moments of sun and heat that a Wisconsin summer provides, seven FBLA members accompanied Mrs. Braatz to the National Leadership Conference in Washington DC.

The conference lasted four days. Besides attending workshops the students were able to participate in various activities during their stay. The focus of the conference was on self-confidence, cooperation, communication, leadership and leaving to identify obstacles in the way of your goals and how to get past them.

Another part of the conference was the competitive events. One of our FBLA members, Jason Jagodzinski, placed third in the nation in Business Procedures. Jason had to write a one hour test that challenged his knowledge of office procedures and skills.

Although workshops, competitive events, and regional meetings took a lot of time. The Colby crew took the opportunity to tour the nations capitol city. They visited the monuments, the Botanical Gardens, the Smithonians, the Senate, and the House of Representatives.

We are sure that the memories of their Washington to DC trip are ones that will be remembered for the rest of their lives.

Thanks to Mrs. Braatz, the students were able to take a special tour of the capital building itself. Afterwards they posed for a picture on the capitol steps with the Thorp FBLA group.

Mr. Hocking has been with us for five years as principal of Colby High School. He has set a good reputation for CHS. We are proud of him and hope he keeps up the good work.

Changes

This is Mrs. Kunert's first year here at Colby High School as an assistant principal. We hope she sticks around for a while, we really like her. She really has shown us her real Colby Hornet spirit.

ORGANIZATIONS

License 4 Fun

Organizations make a splash at Colby.

Organizations and sports are an important part of the lives of CHS students. Beth Seefeld feels "that organizations are here to keep kids more involved in school instead of out of school." On the other hand Timoly Sommer, 8th grader, feels that the organizations at Colby High School "is a way to show off your talents and meet new people from different schools."

There are many organizations that students can be involved in at CHS. Some students prefer to be in one club, but others will be in two or more clubs. Whatever you have an interest in, you will more than likely find a club including your interests.

Perhaps you want to pursue a career in business, then you might want to join Future Business Leaders of America (FBLA). FBLA does many activities throughout the year. Such as going to conventions, community work, and numerous field trips.

Many colleges now require students to take two years of foreign language. If you take part in a Spanish class you may qualify to join the Spanish Club. Each grade in the Spanish Club get to choose an imaginative way to earn money. The money earned is then put towards the clubs fund. Towards the end of the year, they may take a trip which includes Spanish activities.

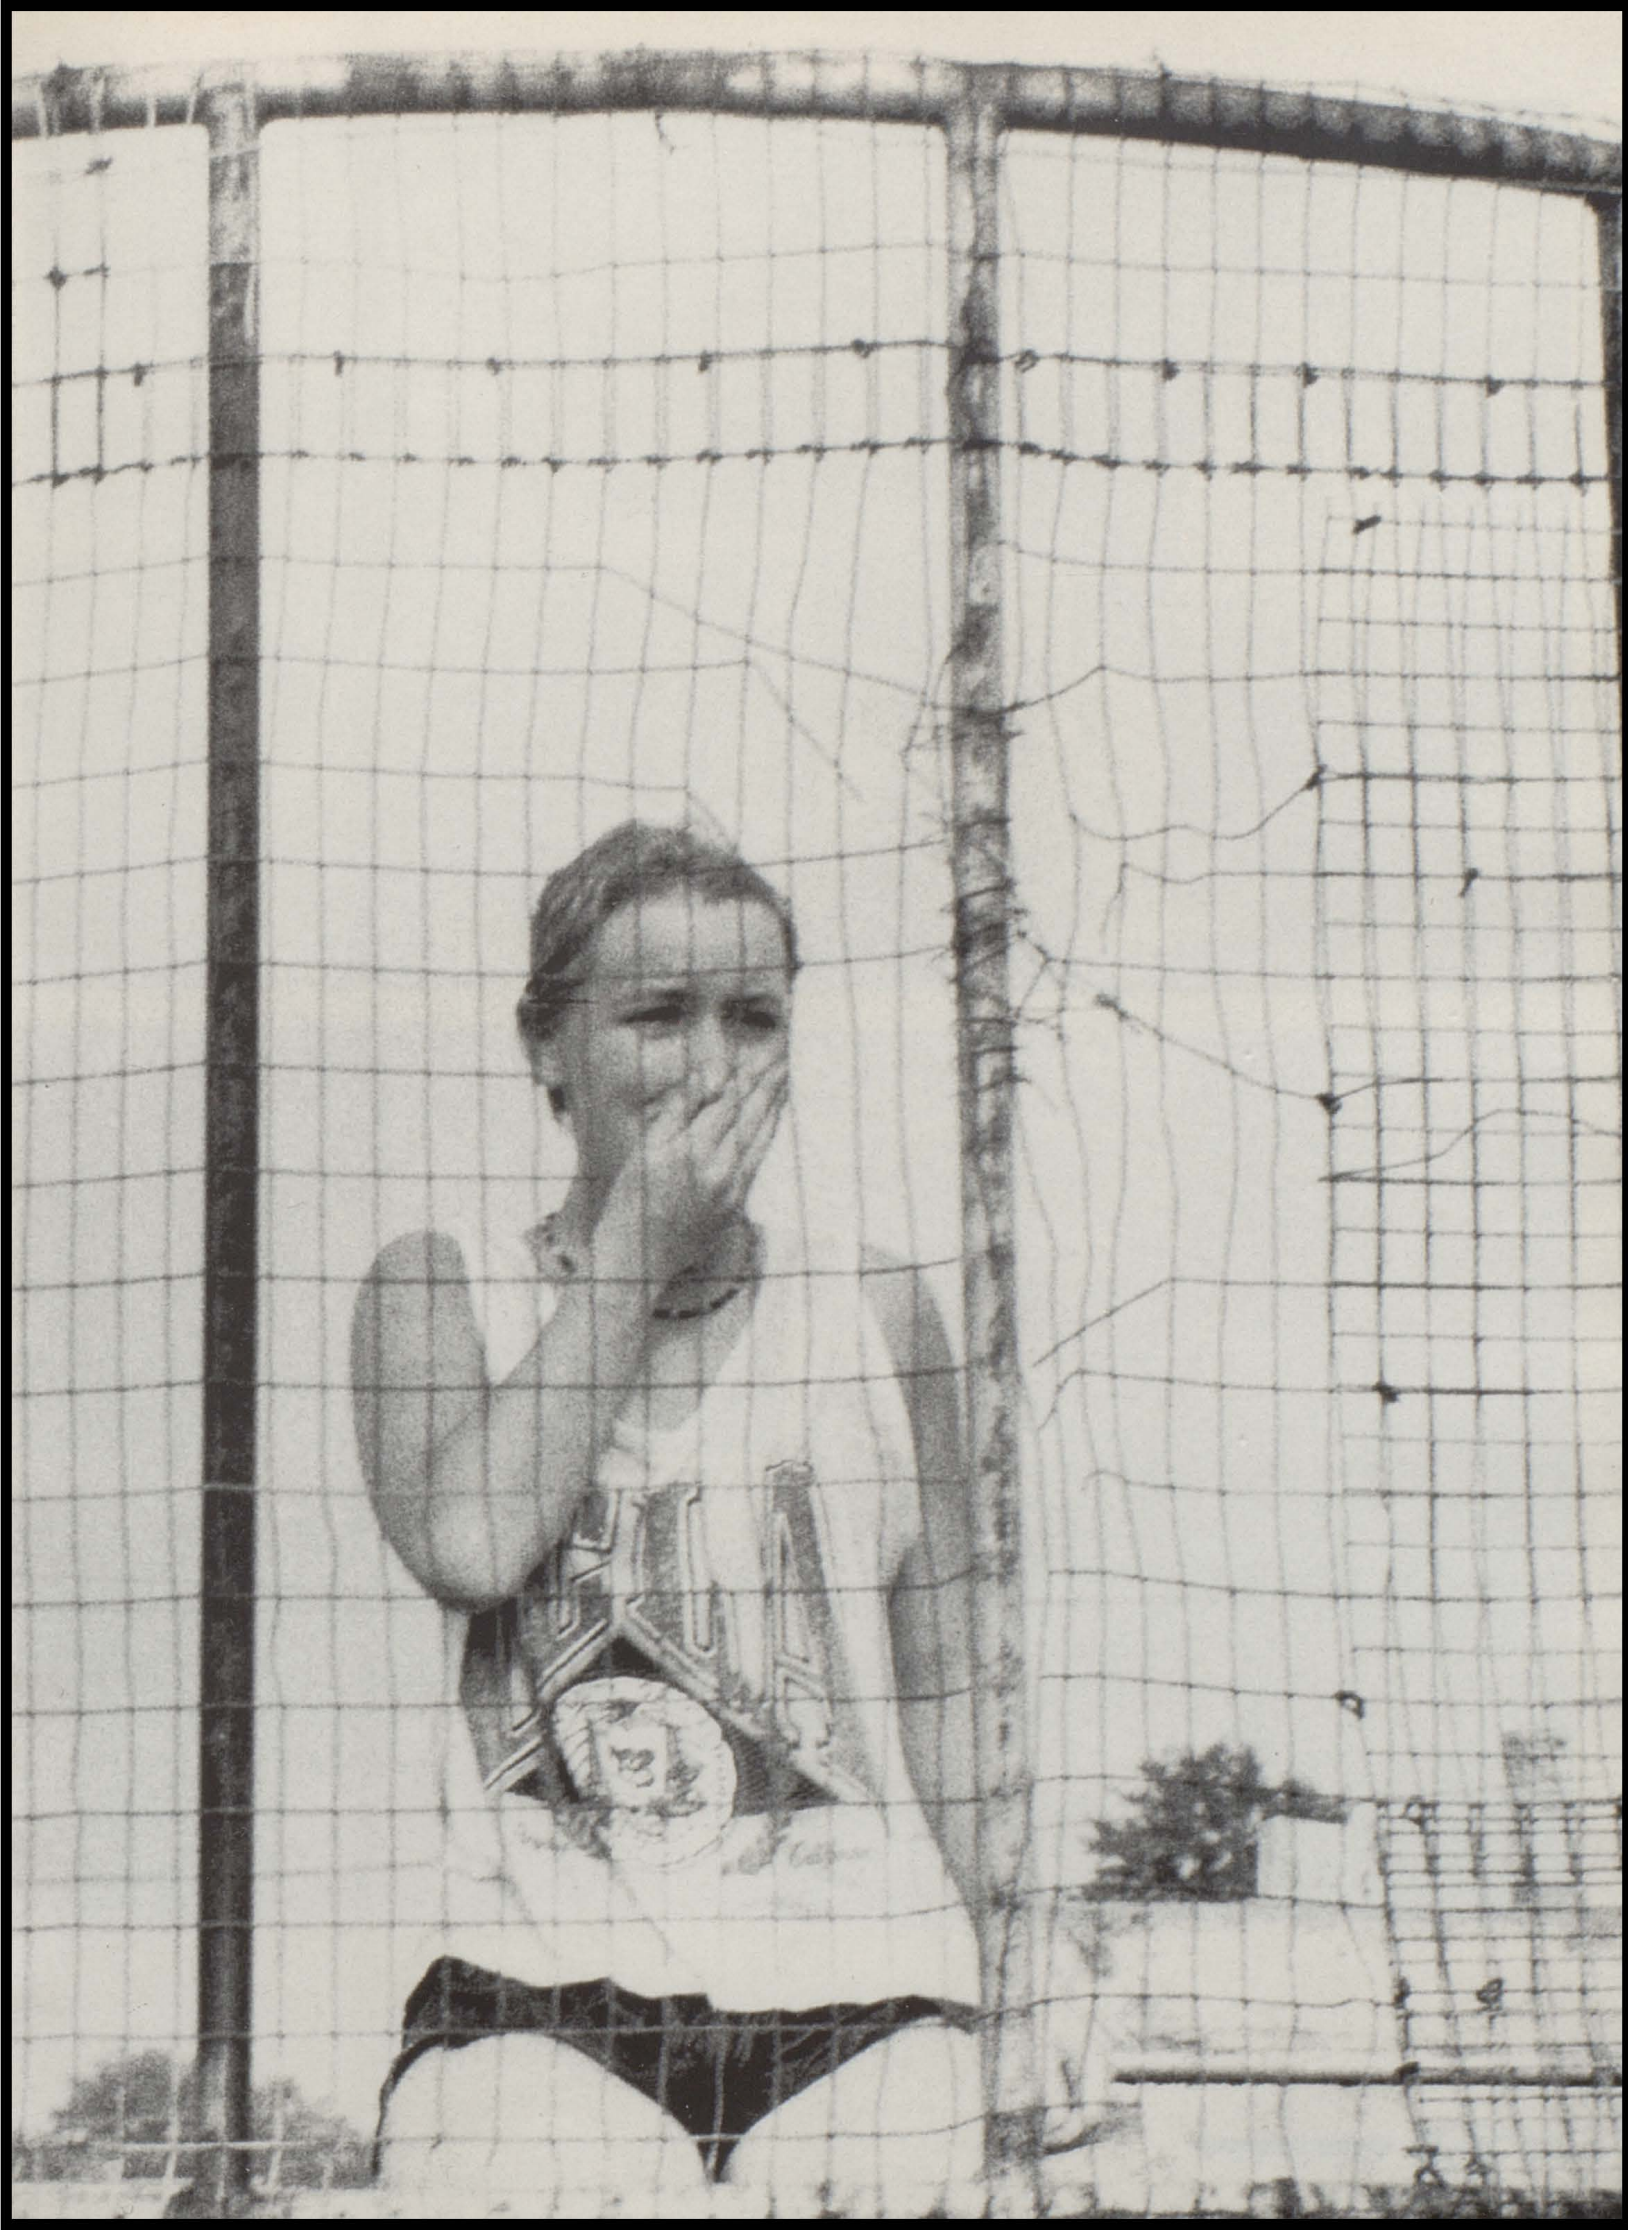

Any of these clubs

you participate in gives you a great benefit to life and it's many complications. Clubs will make you a better person.

Besides these wonderful clubs we have numerous sports to take part in. Guys sports include football, basketball, wrestling, cross country, field and track and baseball. Girls sports include volleyball, basketball, swimming, water ballet, softball, field and track, and cross country.

Every student in CHS has every right and privilege to join and take part in all of these extra curricular activities. They all provide good health and education.

Taking part in activities will lead to a well-rounded life.

August 1-5, the editors and Miss Schafer attended a yearbook camp. The week at UW Stevens Point helped prepare the editors and Miss Schafer for a school year of hard work getting the 1993-94 Colby High School Yearbook to you before the end of the year.

The new annual publications class, really helped our yearbook staff. Having the chance to learn how to write stories, take pictures and how to do layouts. We hope that this will help us be a success.

Another new change this year is the fact that we have switched our publishing companies and are now working with Taylor Publishing Company. Our representative, Ron Fendler helped us a lot, he has come into our class and showed us how to do things, brought his own ideas, and really built our confidence up. We hope that the changes we have made will benefit your enjoyment of this year's book. After all-it's JUST FOR U!

1. The new Yearbook staff includes: Missy Cook, Jayme Prein, Alexis Sommer, Traci Ballerstein, Joe Luedtke, Jennifer Gumz, Karen Berg, Jessica Neuman, Miss Schafer, Stephanie Ballerstein, Jennifer Johnson, Erica Ewert, Jessica Schraufnagel, Laurie Weidman, Wendy Ploeklemen, Angie Bender, Tina Poehnelt, Lori Kops, Beth Seefeld, Kara Hainzelsperger, Niaomi Runge, Jessica Briggs.

WE GOT SPIRIT!

How 'bout you?

Homecoming 1993 ran the week of October 4th through the 8th. The week was packed full of activities that brought the classes together to show their spirit.

Classes participated for points by participating in dress up days, the powder puff, air band, wall decoration, cheer-off, toilet paper race, relay race and the tug of war. Although a good time was had by all, the Juniors managed to pull off another win this year. This makes the third year in a row that the class of 1995 has won the Homecoming Activity Points.

This year the cheerleaders began a new tradition. They awarded a spirit stick to the winning class. The stick is to be decorated by the class and will be displayed throughout the year in the cheerleading showcase.

Many thanks should be given to the football cheerleaders and their advisor Deb McGhee for all of their hard work organizing the Homecoming Week activities.

6. Travis Dommer and Erin Wenzel prepare to turn Todd Hauser into a mummy during the toilet paper race at the pep rally on Friday.

Captured in a Dream

On the night of April 17, 1993 the Junior class "Captured" us in their "Dream." The dance, held at the Sword, was decorated in metallic black, silver and teal.

Prom goers danced the night away, especially to the Prom songs "A Whole New World" and "The Right Kind of Love." Music was provided by Music in Motion (Z-100).

"Everybody had fun, but the night went to fast for all the work we put into it," said Prom Queen Holly Meyer. Holly, along with the rest of her class would like to give a special thanks to Prom advisors Mr. Mac Swain and Mrs. Polzin, who helped with all the things we wouldn't have ever thought about. Prom King Richard Smazal would like to give a special thanks to his friend Clayton Erikson for dressing him on their big night out.

After the Prom most couples went to Post Prom Party at Spare Time Lanes. While there they participated in bowling, bingo, blackjack, miniature golf and dancing. Auction bucks could be earned by participating in these events. Prizes were then bought with these bucks.

The Band's New Image

The Colby High School Band has been up to many new things lately.

First of all if you haven't noticed yet the band has new uniforms.

So no instead of bell bottoms you have a more up-to-date style. As trumpet player Galen Schraugnel puts it "They are very colorful." Trombone player Richie LaFave likes them because, "They are a lot better than the old, they finally go my size." Everyone in the band who has worn the old uniforms or even seen them, most definitely agrees.

Trumpet player Mary Hart summed it up best when she said, "A big improvement, I feel proud to be wearing them."

The uniforms are used in various ways like marching. The band marches at Colby Cheese Day every year. The band also wears them for some concerts and at contests. They also wear them when they play at half-time during football games.

The band also took a trip down to St. Louis. June 4-7 the band went to see the Arch, go to Great America over Mid-America and go to the St. Louis Zoo.

They also attended a musical workshop at Washington University. And last but not least shopping, these were just a few of the things that they did down there.

When asked if he had fun on the trip, trombone player Justin Luther replied, "Yes, I thought the trip was a very educational experience, I learned a lot about music." But yet I had fun.

Everyone came away from St. Louis with different memories that will never be forgotten.

Mary Hart dresses for the dairyland theme for the band's fall concert.

Forensics is a team of devoted students. This year we have 26 students on the team.

There are 15 categories that you can compete in: play acting, group interpretation, prose, poetry, farrago, radio speaking, public address, oratory, storytelling, demonstration, extemporaneous, solo acting, moments in history, four-minute speaking, and special occasion.

Miss Duffy and Mrs. Rubbish are this year's advisors for the team.

The team will compete in a subdistrict meet in February. If they are selected to go on, then they compete at district in March and next state in April.

But what will forensics do for me? Increase of your public speaking abilities and the boosting of your confidence are some of the ideas that Miss Duffy has.

And when Sydney Strasser was asked why she is in forensics, she answered, "I feel that it is a good way to express myself."

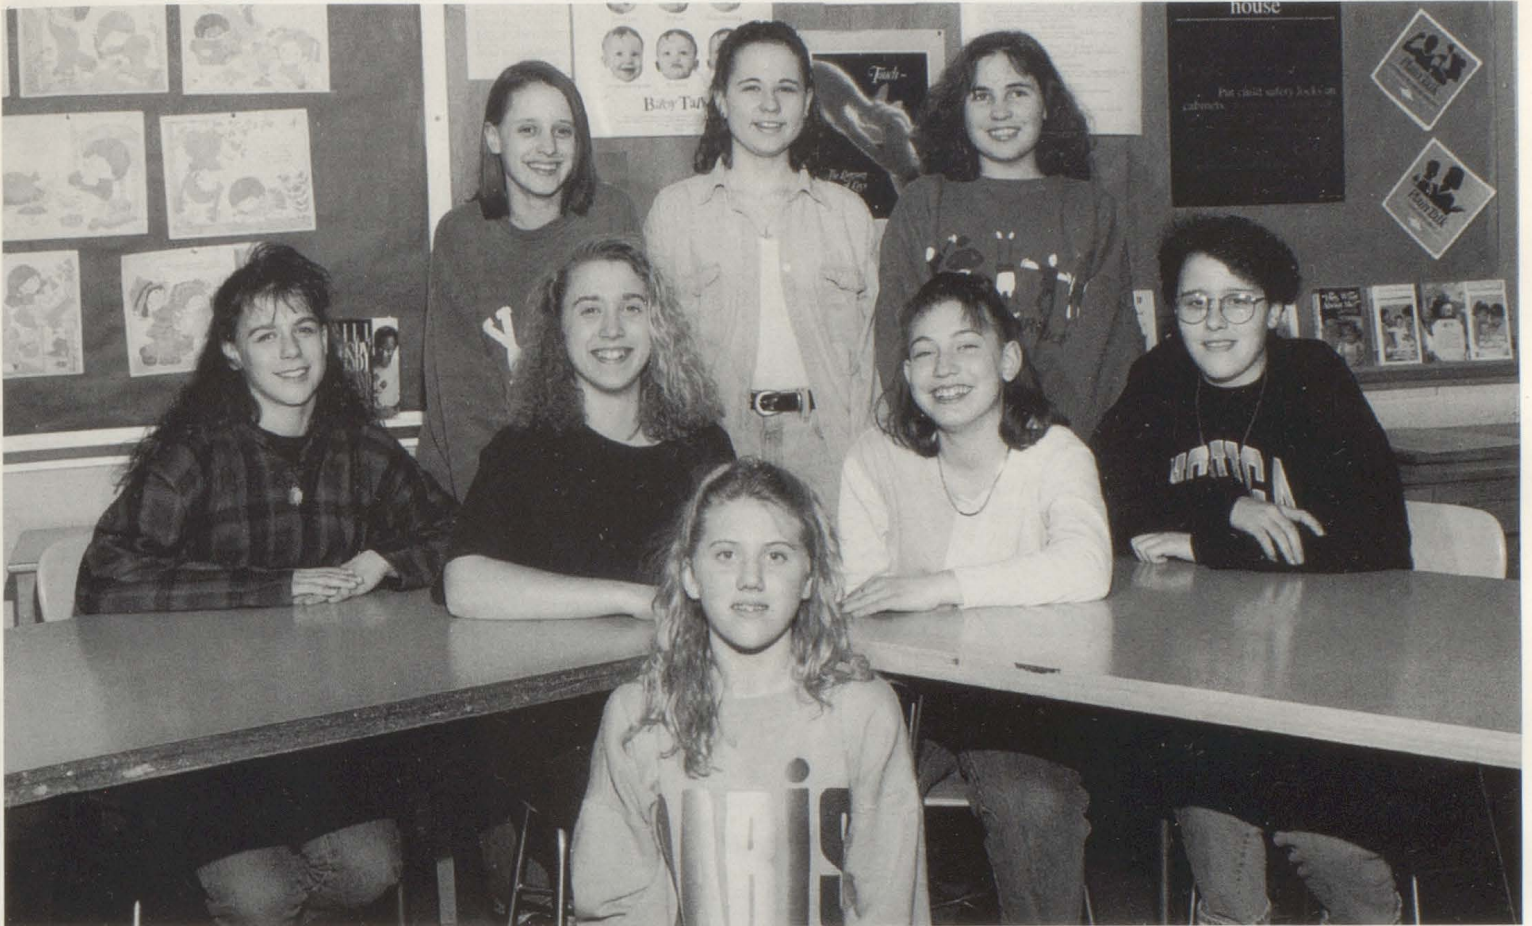

Right: Julie Giese gives us a sample of her forensics project.

Far Right: Miss Duffy talks to her forensic group.

It takes two weeks of layout to produce the newspaper!

There are many new things going on in Room 120, eight hour,
Since that is the hour of student Publications. Student Publications is the class that creates and puts out the school newspaper.

They have created a new look for the paper with a more realistic hornet for the masthead and a preview down the side column.
To make things easier for them they also got new software for the computers.

This year they also have an Editorial Board, last year the had an editor-in-chief and co-editors.

They have had five editors, one for each section of the paper. They are also placing more responsibility on the editors. Also the group is gaining a new perspective on different issues from Ivan Svetlicic, the foreign exchange student from Croatia.

In all perspectives things seem to be going great so keep up the good work!

The Moving Wall, by Dawn Ottum

A "WALL" that has been traveling around the United States for about five years came to rest at the High Ground (3½ miles west of Neillsville on U.S. Highway 10) from September 13 through September 19. While t the High Ground this wall drew a lot of visitors.

This "wall" that I am referring to is the Moving Wall. The Moving Wall is a half-size replica of the Vietnam Veterans Memorial in Washington D.C.

While only half the size of the actual memorial, it still provokes all of the same emotions. Ms. Diane Duffy (a Speech and English teacher at CHS) says, "The mood is very quiet and sad, people were placing flowers and wreaths by the wall." For some it's a way of being close to, and way of remembering, a loved one that have been buried for so longand to start the healing process. For others it means even more because they can't afford to go to Washington, D.C. to see the full size Wall.

I hope that even if you don't know someone who was lost over in Vietnam that you had the chance to see, or have the chance to see the Moving Wall if it returns to this area. "It has more of an impact than the other memroials that I have seen," says Duffy. "It was also an unique opportunity."

Issue of sexual harassment is discussed at Colby by Niaomi Runge

Any one who has walked the Senior High halls has seen it. Some of us may have been the victim of it. Some of us may have provoked it. Most of us don't fully understand it. The "it" is sexual harassment.

The term is so new that Webster has not defined it yet. The term may be new, but actual acts of sexual harassment date back to cavemen days. Sexual harassment started to get noticed for what it actually was back in the '60's. It became apparent as women came on equal terms with men in the workplace, and men's insecurities started to shine through. Sexual harassment caught everyone's attention in the 1991 court case of Anita Hill and Clarence Thomas. Don't feel sexual harassment is just a women's issue; men also fall victim, but do not report it nearly as much.

You may ask yourself what is it exactly? Sexual harassment can consist of; suggestive gestures, looks, comments, touching, pinching, or grabbing, being leaned over or cornered, sexual notes or pictures, and/or being pressured or forced to do something sexual.

In a recent poll of teenage girls conducted by Seventeen magazine, 89% say they have been sexually harassed; 40% of these say it happens to them every day.

So what's the big deal? Who cares? Why make a big issue over it? First of all, it is against the law, though it may be hard to prove and convict someone for it. Second, it hurts the victims physically and emotionally. It lowers their self-esteem, can make them feel dirty or as if they've done something wrong. And third, whatever happened to the right to pursue happiness? Happiness cannot be found by constant sexual pressures from a creep. Nobody has the right to take away another one's happiness.

Why do the harassers do it? One interviewed a victim felt "he (the harasser) did it for a cheap thrill." She also stated she would never harass someone because she has morals. An interviewed male thinks "guys don't know how else to express themselves." He also stated "most girls like it." However, all females interviewed at CHS said they did not like it. There seems to be a lot of mixed feelings floating around CHS on the subject.

Mr. LaFave, CHS guidance counselor, feels "sexual harassment exists everywhere." He thinks that if guys and girls had the chance to sit down and talk to each other, ask each other what bothers them, and what doesn't, the problem could be helped. He also said if a victim came to him he would weigh the situation and take it only as far as the victim wanted. Many CHS students felt that the school had no control over harassment, couldn't do anything about it, especially since victims are too scared or embarrassed to tell.

The point is, if it does happen to you or somebody else, report it. Even if this only means telling a friend or parent. By making people aware you are making them less likely to harass or hwea, and more likely to report it to authorities if it happens to them.

Sexual harassment is not an exaggeration, it doesn't only happen to women, and it won't fade away until every single person on earth understands it. The lae needs to take off the blindfold and deal with it seriously. Until this happens, keep fighting and continue your pursuit of happiness.

Colby High Schools Sexual Harassment Policy

The School District of Colby shall maintain a learning and working environment that is free from sexual harassment. Both males and females can be victims or perpetrators of sexual harassment.

No employee, school board member or student shall be subjected to sexual harassment.

Disciplinary action against an employee should be in accordance with applicable administrative rules and collective bargaining agreement.

The definition of sexual harassment is unwelcome sexual advances, requests for sexual favors, and other verbal or physical conduct of a sexual nature. More specifically sexual harassment is, but is not limited to

A) lewd or sexually suggestive comments

B) unwelcome touching

C) sexually explicit language or jokes

D) sexually suggestive objects or pictures

E) the threat or insinuation that the lack of sexual submission will adversely affect the victims job, grades, etc.

REPORTING PROCEDURE

Any employee, or student, who experience sexual harassment should file a written report of said incident(s) to their building principal/supervisor, unless the alleged offender is the building principal/supervisor. The building principal/supervisor must immediately inform the superintendent of schools about the alleged harassment. A copy of the written report of said incident shall be forwarded to the superintendent immediately. The building principal/supervisor will fully investigate the complaint, notify the person who has been accused of harassment and submit a report of the results of the investigation to all parties and the superintendent of schools within ten (10) working days of the complaint. The building principal/supervisor may exercise discretionary authority to discipline the employee or student involved if satisfied that the evidence as presented warrants disciplinary action. If the alleged offender is a building principal/supervisor, the victim should file a written report with the superintendent of schools. the superintendent will conduct the investigation according to the same time line.

If the complainant is not satisfied with the disposition of the case by the building principal/supervisor, he/she may issue a written appeal to the superintendent of schools indicating the nature of the disagreement with the report. The superintendent of school shall review the matter with the appropriate parties and provide a response to the appeal within twenty (20) working days.

If the complainant is not satisfied with the disposition of the case by the superintendent, he/she may request a hearing with the School District of Colby Board of Education. The board will hear evidence regarding the matter and take appropriate action to resolve the matter as soon as possible.

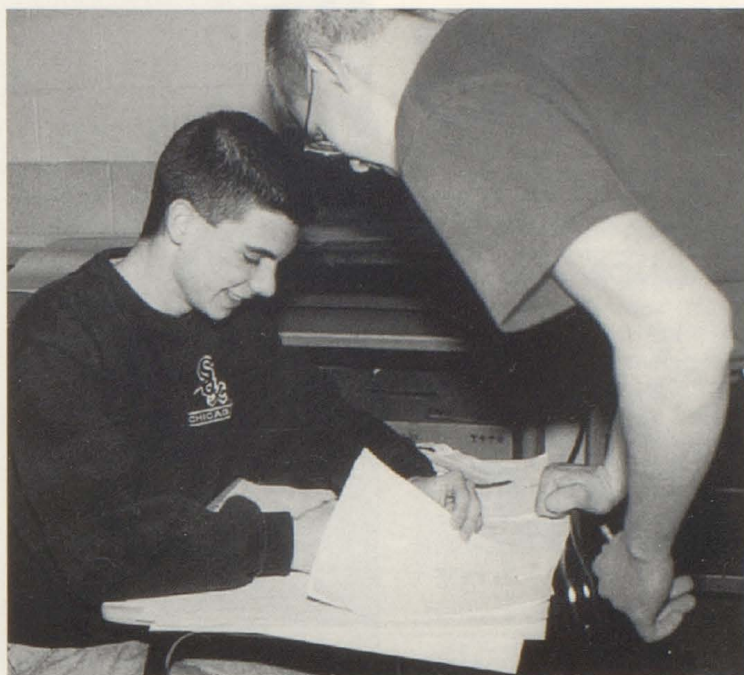

Beavis and Butthead get mixed reviews.

By Ryan Rachu

Many of the students at Colby High School are being taken in by the latest Beavis and Butthead phase. One always hears students doing their impersonations. From the common and annoying laugh to Butthead's key phrase, "That was cool," MTV's latest marketing project is a complete success! Their merchandise is selling out at most stores. You can purchase T-shirts and hats to buttons and keychains. No matter how many new products there are, people are constantly wanting more.

Ever since they first arrived on the TV screen last fall, people have been curious. People of all ages have their own opinions. While some people worship them, others despise them. I've recently talked to some CHS students and a majority of the students admired them while others found them repulsive.

According to the students, Beavis and Butthead are a big hit at CHS! If you haven't seen them, check them out at six and ten every weeknight. For those people who don't like Beavis and Butthead, don't worry it's just a phase and will come and go just like bell bottoms and platform shoes.

NHS

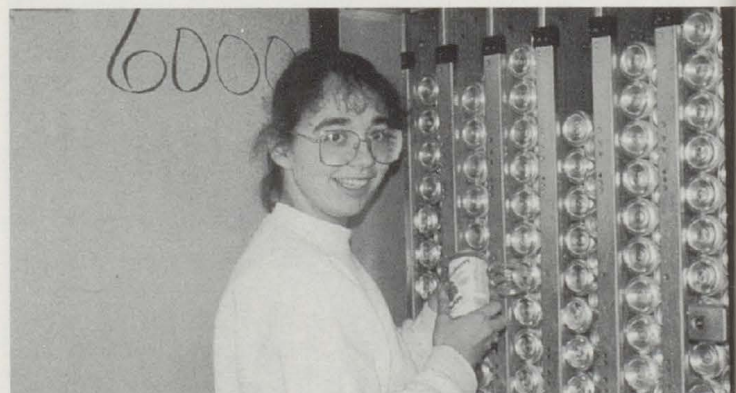

This year the National Honor Society was saddened by the loss of their advisor Mr. Albert Braun. The position of advisor is now filled by Mrs. Jane Rubish. Induction of the new members was postponed from the traditional November date to January 16. To become a part of NHS, students must have a 3.0 grade point average and fill out an application form. This form is evaluated by a panel of teachers who decide which students will be inducted into the group. This year's inductees are from left to right row 1: Penni Schwarze, Nicole Hamilton, Collette Mullins, Krissy Lange, Tina Oestrich. Row 2: Shelly Rashka, Rachel Thomas, Angela Engel, Alicia Krisher. On November 7 & 8 the Colby High school Drama students put on a play to the public, called "The Final Dress Rehearsal" it was a play within a play. The Drama students then took the play to state on November 20. Miss Duffy who was the director of the play and Tina Poehnelt who was the Utility girl in the play both felt that their performance at state was one of the best they ever had.

Miss Duffy feels it is very important for high school students to get involved in theater. She feels that it is a great opportunity for students because it gives them the experience of being in front of a crowd, it builds their confidence and also gives them the ability to work with large groups of people. One of the items that Miss Duffy has to take into consideration when choosing plays is the number of people the play requires, if the play needs more girls than boys (more girls try out than boys), she also needs to consider if her drama students are able to play the parts needed for the play to be successful.

The cast of "The Final Dress Rehearsal" were Tina Poehnelt, John Knorr, Jeni Gumz, Darcy Lapp, Jessica Viergutz, Linsey Roach, Heather Wellman, B.J. Wigstadt, Lisa Decker, Ryan Bragg, Tim Briggs, Steve Kampmeyer, Ryan Decker, Mary Hart, Sydney Strasser, Liz Kohl, and Jennifer Matthys. The cast received a plaque at state for their hard work and dedication.

1. Pictured are B.J. Wigdstat, Steve Kampmeyer, and Ryan Bragg who played stage hands. In this part of the play they were blaming eachother for hiding the record behind the control board.
2. Linsey Roach who plays the author of the play is pictured yelling at Sydney Strasser and Darcy Lapp who play the Step-daughters. The step-daughters are being yelled at for walking through the wall instead of the door.
3. Pictured are Heather Wellman who played the Prompter in the play and Mary Hart who played the Director are shown getting into a big fight because the Prompter wanted a "real" part in the play.

Pictured is the cast of "The Final Dress Rehearsal" showing off their plaque after going to state. The cast was very proud of their plaque because they practiced hard to achieve this. We congratulate the cast for a job well done!

Many of you have heard of the SADD (Students Against Drunk Driving) group. They sponsored the play "Alky" last year which focused on teenage drinking. They also traditionally sponsor Red Ribbon Week, which focuses on drug and alcohol awareness, and Safety Week which promotes automobile safety. Activities during these weeks included wearing red ribbons to show freedom from drugs and t-shirts commemorating the people who die every 23 minutes from drunk driving accidents.

Miss Brenda Schafer, the SADD advisor, said some people are very serious about stopping drunk driving but others pay their $2 dues just because their friends did. Schafer commented, "I would like to see these people become more involved and more active." Last year a new organization was formed from a group of SADD members. They call themselves PRIDE. Jessica Winzenreid and Schafer were major organizers of this group which provides general drug education to Elementary and Junior High audiences. The group is modeled after a National PRIDE group and many of Colby's PRIDE skits and program ideas came from them.

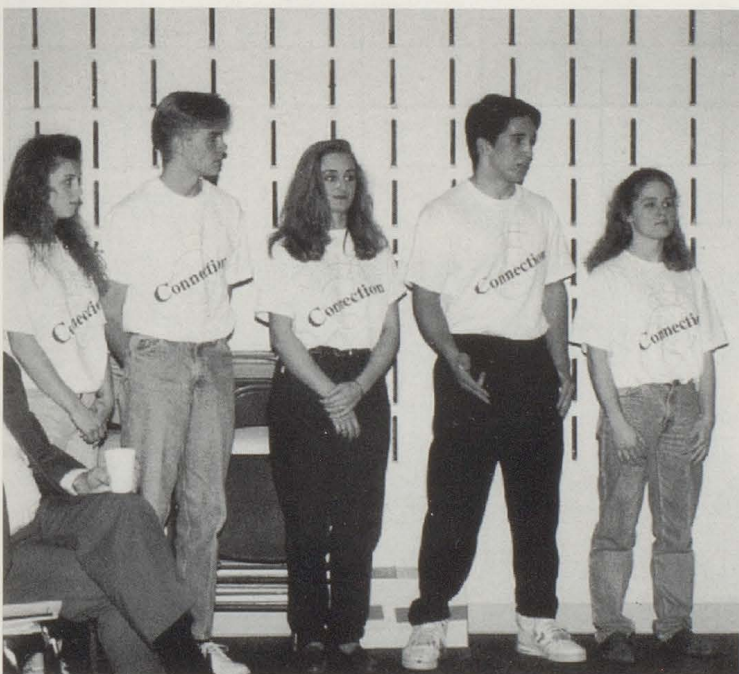

The PRIDE group was open to those interested last year but members this year and in the future will be auditioned. Schafer said the major reason for this is because she can't take a huge group out of school for their activities. She also felt if the group was non-auditioned it would become too large and unorganized, thus losing its effect on its audiences. Junior, Linsey Roach, said she got involved because, "It's a fun way to influence kids through acting and singing, not preaching."

Both SADD and PRIDE urge Students to be drug free and think before they act.

The Connection is a hot new group Mrs. Guy and Mr. Hensler started last year. She attended a workshop about Natural Peer Helpers and thought Colby could benefit from such a program. The Natural Peer Helpers program's purpose is to give students someone on their own level to talk to. Peer Helpers are trained to help students explore and solve their problems. They also form a Connection between students who need help and professional sources of help. This is where Colby members got their name "The Connection" from. According to Mr. Rob Hensler, co-advisor, Natural Peer Helper Organizations are common in Wisconsin schools. They were formed because many students are uncomfortable going to adults for help, but their peers don't always know how to help. The Peer Helpers are trained to identify problems, help students explore their alternatives, and give them support when speaking to adults about their problems. Connection members are chosen by their peers. Each student is asked to nominate three people they're comfortable talking to. The person from each class who gets the most nominations is then asked to be a Connection member.

Connection activities go beyond just talking to troubled students. They help out at the elementary in classrooms, on the playground, with study groups, and with the DARE program. They also host the Spring Fling, a dance for the Junior and Senior High. They also provide tutoring programs at the Junior and Senior High levels. Junior, Jessica Viergutz said, "I like helping people. I think the group will work out the kinks in future years and more students will come to us for help." Advisor Mrs. Guy said, "Give it (Connection) a chance, it will be a positive influence." So if you need someone to talk to, get a hold of a Connection member; they'll be happy to listen and help you.

The Spanish Club, what is it? The Spanish Club consist of 49 members, during the course of the year they have gone on a trip to watch a play done both in English and in Spanish,

Some of the funds rasiers that the Spanish Club has done, were selling Mr. Z's and some others. This year the Spanish Club is rasing money for the trip to "Fesitable of Nations" in the Tiwn Cities Minnesota, it will be a one day event.

To be in the Spanish Club, you have to be in a Spanish Class, whether your in Spanish 1, 2, 3, or 4. There are also club dues. Being in Spanish and in the Spanish Club is a very culteral experiance. Most Colleges requier some form of forieng language. Spanish is also becoming one of Americas more popular language.

CHOIR

Harmonizing In Chamber Choir

For those of you who haven't heard the latest news, CHS has another music class: Chamber Choir! Chamber Choir is the combination of the Treble and Mixed Swing Choirs. Most people have peaked in on the after-school Swing Choir practices in the theatre, but this year it is an actual class so that the routines can be better organized. CHS Senior Wendy Ploeckelman agreed with the idea of having it as a class and stated, "We get a lot more accomplished and we don't forget things so easily."

Not only do they get more done, but as Mr. Reiersen said, "I felt it would give us the opportunity to explore more serious literature." The Chamber Choir concentrates on familiar ballads, spiritual hymns, and music in foreign languages. Meanwhile, the Swing Choir can perform those "Golden Oldies" that appeal to many audience levels.

For all those interested in joining the Choir, Mr. Reiersen holds individual auditions (in January) so he can choose the 30 members to be in the new Choir. CHS Sophomore Ryan Decker believes it was well worth joining, "I feel honored to be in it because I enjoy music so much." CHS Freshmen Matt Brown also concludes that he feels "great to be a part of the wonderful voices because the people really seem to care about music."

It's also interesting to note that the group does several public performances, besides their normal concerts within the school year. And you receive one full credit by taking the two-semester course. Any further questions can be answered by Mr. Reiersen or a member of the Choir.

SCIENCE

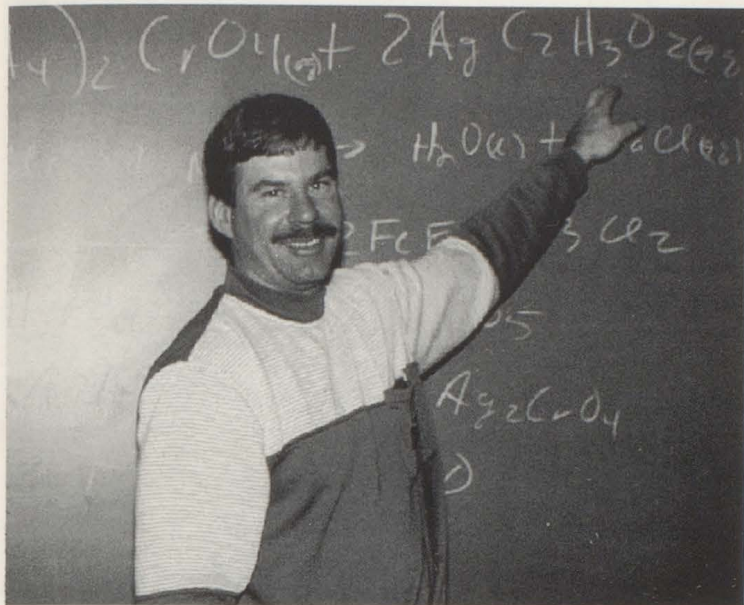

1. In Biology II, the class gets to dissect cow eyes. Each student is assigned to one eye. Here Helen Lange and Jahn Hibbs are admiring the eye to see it's many parts.

2. Elon Roti Roti and Heather Wellman are observing a chemistry lab in awe.

$$km \times km / sec = sec$$

Science is a challenge for most students. They can learn something new every day because science is always changing. For most students dissection is the most interesting thing of the year. But for others they can't stand the smell of the formaldehyde used to preserve the object of dissection. Student Erin Luchterhand liked to dissect. She held the scalpel while her partner took notes.

The two science teachers at Colby High School are Mrs. Rubisch and Mr. Hansen. Mrs. Rubisch didn't decide to teach science until she was in college. She feels that "science is a challenge." This year Mrs. Rubisch wants to improve her teaching methods and to have more hands on labs.

When Mr. Hansen was enrolled in college he really wasn't sure if he wanted to teach science. He was also interested in Research and Pre Med, but somewhere along the line he decided that he liked science best. He believes that the technology now compared to 5 yrs. ago is much more advanced and gives his classes more to learn about. Mr. Hansen also likes to see very enthusiastic students in his classes.

If you are in Bio II, you get to go down to Madison to see a cadaver. Disecting includes the fetile pig and the cow eye. In Chemistry you learn how liquid nitrogen can deflate a full helium balloon into a balloon that looks like it is not blown up at all. When air hits it again it inflates into the regular helium balloon you started with.

So if you like dissecting, learning about the world around you, and the human anatomy I suggest that you consider taking some of these classes. They can be very fun and interesting.

PEOPLE

License To Be Yourself

Webster's definition for student is a person who studies or investigates and is enrolled in school or college. We then asked these people what being a student meant to them. These are a few of the responses:

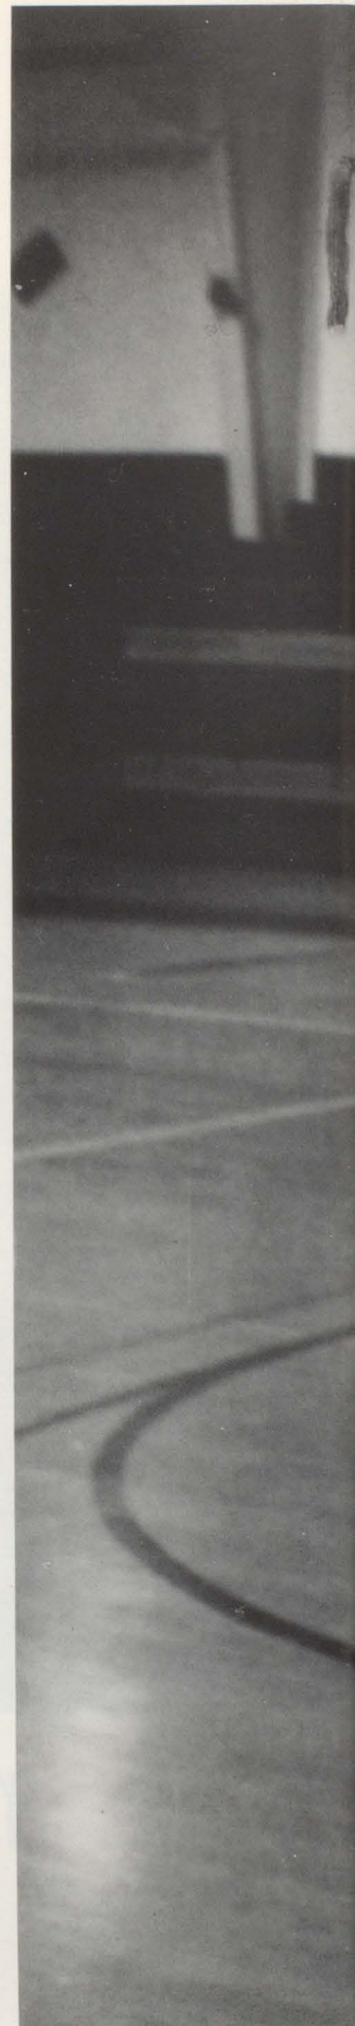

Jason Matthys a Junior says, "It's a year round party where none is too young or too old, we have no limits. We can sing the dingaling song whenever we want!"

Kristel Rueden and Bonnie Gay, Freshman say, "Hard at times, and the work can be overloading. But, we enjoy coming to socialize with the students."

Chad Robida a Junior continues saying, "I guess it's alright! It's also not that hard, I expect college to be a lot harder."

Jennifer Matthys a Sophomore thinks, "It's okay, I'd rather be a student than be out in the real world."

Angie Bender a Junior explains, "As always said, it's supposed to be the funnest time in your life!"

Lessons Learned From The Life of Al Braun

Lesson 1

You taught me that the horizons for learning are as vast and wide and deep as the universe; that learning cannot be confined to the four walls of a classroom. You drew from real life experiences and your perceptions of the world around you to create materials for classes in Street Law, Current Affairs, and World History. As you endeavored to provide your students with the most meaningful learning experiences possible, insofar as you were able, you also challenged them to continue learning as they would encounter the world beyond your classroom walls. For you, learning was not a matter of completing a class; learning was a lifelong process.

"Mr. Braun was the man who taught us how to care for ourselves and others, how to learn all we can and never stop, how to give to those in need of help, and of course how to tie a tie — for without him, how else would we ever have learned all of these things?" — Holly Meyer, Class of 1994

You taught me not to take life so seriously, or myself so seriously, that I can't have fun. If my life can't make room for laughter, that maybe life isn't worth living. Your jokes, your sense of humor will be the stuff of legend. All of those ties!! A different one every day! Those outlandish ones! With all those different ties, you gave your students a new meaning to the hymn, "Blest Be the Tie that Binds."

"Steve MacSwain Shared the following story at the memorial service on November 2nd. It happened during Mr. MacSwain's participation in the Veteran's Walk for Marshfield to Neilville. Mr. MacSwain's knee had given out and Mr Braun was working on helping him get it set so he could finish the walk. There was thunder and lightning off in the distance and Mr. MacSwain expressed a concern that he hoped the storm would hold off until they completed the walk. Mr. Braun's response was, "You think you're worried think about me!"

Lesson 3

Now, your journey takes you on a path that goes in a different direction, a path that now separates us. That separation means that life will never be the same for me and all who were blessed to know you. Our loss is immense. In one sense, the world is a little darker now, because the flame of love has been extinguished in your life. But maybe you're teaching us that a candle can only provide light when it's lit, and burning, and melting away. So, in another sense, you've made the world a much brighter place because of the countless flames of love you ignited by touching the lives of others.

Mr. Braun helped us to set goals and to reach for those same goals. He taught beyond the classroom and into the real world. He enlightened us and shared many of his experiences so that we could make the right decisions in life. On behalf of the entire student body of Colby High School we extend our deepest sympathy. We will miss you

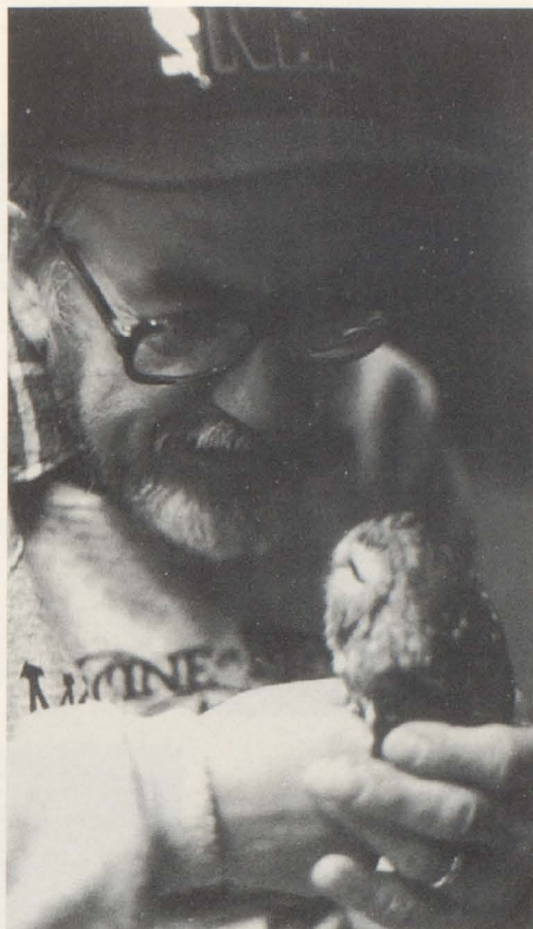

Mr. Braun." Clayton Erikson, Class of 1994

Our loss is immense; but in your absence you have left us with many memories to treasure. Rest well, my friend. Donald W. Swender.

(The words of this tribute except for those set aside by quotations and Mr. MacSwain are the words of the witness given by Rev. Donald W. Swender.)

Albert C. Braun, 60, Dorchester, died Friday, October 29, at St. Joseph's Hospital, Marshfield. Funeral services were held Tuesday, November 2, at Salem United Methodist Church, Dorchester, with Revs. Bob Linaberry-Charis and Donald W. Swender officiating. A memorial service was also held that day at the Colby High School Theater. Burial took place in Dorchester Memorial Cemetery. He was a high school social science teacher, having taught in Antigo, Brookfield, and for the past 20 years at Colby High School. He coached and officiated volleyball, track and cross country. He advised various school clubs including most recently, the Colby National Honor Society. He also was the announcer for the home games of the Colby Hornets football team.

Think

If you think you are beaten, you are.
If you think you dare not, you don't.
If you like to win, but you think you can't,
It is almost certain you won't.

If you think you'll lose, you're lost,
For out of the world we find,
Success begins with a fellow's will

It's all in the state of mind.

If you think you are outclassed, you are,
You've got to think high to rise,
You've got to be sure of yourself before
You can ever win a prize.

Life's battles don't always go
To the stronger or faster man,
But soon or late the man who wins
Is the man WHO THINKS HE CAN!

Seniors

License to Succeed

What does 94 mean to me? It is the year when I ended one life and began another. The old life began in seventh grade. This was a time to goof off and rebel. No one really cared about grades. We just wanted to impress the guy or girl our heart was set on that week.

Then we moved on to the big time. We were freshmen! We thought it would be great but realized we still didn't fit in. But then we found the solution. We needed a car.

A car would be great. We could go to all the parties and hang out with the seniors. Everything would be awesome. Then some people got their license and a car only to find out that you needed money.

A job was the solution to that problem. You missed out on the sports and activities so you could have the freedom and it all seemed worth it. Others played the game, excelled, and loved it.

Finally we were seniors-where did the time go? We asked ourselves, "Am I ready for this? Can I live on my own? What will I do the rest of my life?"

These questions sent us off to guidance where they would always help. We planned our life, for the time being, and finished the year.

Now, graduation is coming so fast. This is the last that we will see of each other for a while-maybe forever.

It was fun. Thanks to all who stood by and supported me. I consider you all my friends.

Good Luck,

WHAT R WE 2 DO NEXT?

Seniors have many options for what they are going to do after high school graduation: college, military, technical schools, and out in the work force are just a few. "I feel Colby students are very diversified in their choices" said guidance counselor Stephen LaFave. Of the choices of higher education, technical schools are less expensive. Private schools are more expensive but offer a different type of education. CHS student Wendy Ploeckelman said, "I would rather go to a private college because I'm specializing in teaching." Others may choose a technical school because of the direct experiences provided geared toward the actual work experience. Yet others may choose to go into the armed forces to get a specialized education with on the job training. If students do not choose to go on for a higher education they enter the work force directly. On the job they will gain the specific training that is needed. What ever the choice Colby students are sure to be well prepared for the challenges that meet them.

Lower Right: The concentration needed for Track and Field events is shown here by Scott Hopperditzel as he flies over the hurdles in a Neillsville meet.

The 1993 Track season was an unusual one. Abnormal cold and wet weather made practice and competition difficult. The boy's team had a very good year despite the bad conditions. They won several triangular meets and finished well in some of the larger invitationals. The girl's team was in a rebuilding stage. They have, however, a lot of young athletes who show great potential for future years. The coaches were Mr. Steve LaFave, Mr. Russ Allmann, Mr. Dan Ojala, and Mrs. Mary Beth Guy. All four offered a lot of support to the athletes. LaFave commented, "In spite of the weather, several athletes were able to achieve personal bests. This is a tribute to their hard work and positive attitude. This team was a lot of fun to work with." The coaches feel, although the graduated seniors will be missed, there are a large number of underclassmen who offer promise in 1994.

Soul to be a Runner

As the 1993 Cross Country season began, Coach Russ Allmann wasn't sure what would happen, "Cross Country takes a lot of hard work and dedication, I knew they had the potential, but it was up to them to reach it." Colby's team also had much leadership and experience as they returned with five senior guys and seven senior girls.

The season jumped the gun at the first meet in Prentice with guys in second and the girls in fifth. The places remained consistent throughout the season with the guys in the top two and the girls placing fifth and sixth. Coming in with seven first places and four second place finishes the guys were main contenders for the Conference title and ran away with it. The girls also had an all-conference runner, Kim Tischendorf, who finished first at sectionals and later went on to state. The season was memorable for all. Aside from the success on the course was the success of the 31 runners as friends and a team. After all you find your greatest victories in the good times that aren't measured by a stopwatch. Best of luck in the future!

Thoughts by Reeb

This is a sport for the tough.

You can't go and give just enough.

You run until you think you'll drop.

But even then you do not stop.

You walk the course before you run,

Relax a little, have some fun;

Stretch your muscles and concentrate,

You know your race will be great.

You head to where the race will start.

Feel the pounding of your heart.

Your pulse is racing oh so fast,

There is no chance you'll come in last.

The gun goes off and so do you,

You know just what you have to do.

You have to go and keep up pace,

With the others in the race.

Over the hills and past the trees,

Running as swiftly as the breeze.

No one can catch you if they try,

They all just watch you pass them by.

Then half way through you start to slow.

How much farther is there to go?

You begin to fall somewhat behind,

But do not let it affect your mind.

Think of a time inside your head.

It will help as you swiftly tread.

Whatever you do, do not give in,

To the pain you feel within.

As you come around the next bend,

You see the last hundred and then the end.

To the finish you give your all,

Cross the line, ready to fall.

You are so glad when you come in;

Yet, you would run it all over again.

You feel so light, like you could fly,

You've got a case of runner's high.

You ran the race with only one rule;

Do not give up whatever you do!

You went out and did your best.

You put yourself to the test.

You didn't stop, but continued on,

Pushed to the limit and beyond.

You gave your all, more than enough,

Stand tall, proud, you're one of the tough.

This years cheerleading squads consisted of some rookie cheerleaders and some more experienced. The school year was headed off by the football cheerleaders and the football season.

Homecoming was planned by the Football Cheerleading Squad and their new coach Deb McGhee.

After the football season ended there were tryouts held for the Basketball and Wrestling Squads.

The basketball cheerleaders ended a long season starting in November going to February

The wrestling started the same time many of their Saturdays were devoted to going to tournaments with the wrestling teams.

All of the squads put a lot of spirit into the teams and kept the fans going.

License To Change

As a Jr. High student, you go through many changes and adjustments. We talked to several 7th and 8th graders to find out what they thought of the changes:

Brian Hanson, 7th grader: "I now have more than two teachers and have to remember a schedule. There are more sports, more things to think about during the day. Also more goals to work for."

Amber Nikkolay, 8th grader: "I have more freedom and activities to participate in. I also have met new people and friends."

Rhonda Ploeckelman, 7th grader: "There are more teachers, activities and sports. There is more worrying about what people think of you."

Kurt Bender, 8th grader: "There are more teachers, dances, and sports to attend throughout the year. There are also different subjects, like Spanish."

Mary LaVenture, 8th grader: "Having lockers and new classes and getting from room to room in three minutes."

As you open up your yearbook this year and in the years to come, we hope that a lot of good memories come to mind. Memories of this particular year you can always look at your yearbook and say to yourself, I remember that Prom or Homecoming, and then say that was the same year the Badgers won the Rosebowl and the Packers made the playoffs. We will also remember our dear friend Al Braun.

We hope that we have done our job as the staff to make your yearbook not just another book. It's your yearbook to treasure forever and look upon. Because memories are what the past is.

As editors of this year's yearbook staff we feel that the yearbook staff and the book itself has shown great improvement this year. Because of the new yearbook class, we now have time to work on the pages and make them look the best. The staff members and the editors worked hard this year improving the yearbook, with a change of companies, our book is better planned and organized. We do realize that there are bound to be mistakes throughout the book do to human error. Although we have worked hard to minimize the number of mistakes, we would like to apologize ahead of time for any mistakes that may be found in our book. Each individual member of the staff designed their assigned pages and worked to make their deadlines. There were 5 deadlinees throughout the year and every individual made it happen. We hope you enjoyed the book as much as we enjoyed making it. We would like to say thanks to our staff for a job well done, Miss schaffer for her ideas and support, and our new Taylor Repesentive, Ron Fenander. They all helped in making our 1993-1994 yearbook Just-4-You.
